DETAILED ACTION

1. This Office Action is the answer to the Amendment filed on July 25, 2002, which paper has been placed of record in the file.
2. Claims 45-78 are pending in this application.

Allowable Subject Matter/Reasons for Allowance

3. Claims 45, 50, 57, 58, 63, 71, 72, and 78 are allowed over the prior arts cited records.

The closets prior arts are:

1) Oda (US 5,703,646) discloses encoding at least a portion of an input video signal to generate first encoded data, determining an encoding rate every predetermined time on the basis of data quantity every predetermined time of the first encoded data and total quantity of usable data, and encoding the input video signal every predetermined time on the basis of the encoding rate to generate second encoded data. Oda is not directed to the measurement of the rate of encoding itself so as to determine the progress of the encoding process. Rather, Oda is directed to selecting the encoding rate, i.e., the parameters used to set the encoding such as bit rate and the algorithm.

2) DeJaco (US 5,911,128) discloses encoding active speech frames at a reduced data rate by encoding speech frames at rates between a predetermined maximum rate and a predetermined minimum rate, selecting an encoding mode that provides rate efficient coding of the input speech, identifying a set of parameters ideally suited for this operational mode selection and to provide a means for generating this set of parameters. DeJaco is not directed to the measurement of the rate of encoding itself so as to determine the progress of the encoding process. Rather, DeJaco is directed to selecting the encoding rate, i.e., the parameters used to set the encoding such as bit rate and the algorithm.

3) Kato (US 675379) discloses encoding moving picture signals. A plurality of encoding picture groups, each consisting of a pre-set number of encoding pictures freed of redundant pictures from a plurality of original pictures represented by the input moving picture signals, are formed, and the number of original pictures used for forming the encoding picture groups and the group-based target bit amount are calculated. The moving picture signals of the encoding pictures are encoded from one picture group to another based upon the target bit amount. Even if the encoding picture rate is changed from one picture group to another, the target bit amount can be adaptively controlled with these changes in the encoding picture rate. Kato is not directed to the measurement of the rate of encoding itself so as to determine the progress of the encoding process.

Therefore, it is clear from the description of Oda, DeJaco, and Kato, that the prior arts do not considered the possibility of: calculating a measured rate of encoding using the selected sample and the predetermined period of time, so as to provide an interim rate of completion of a subsequent process of encoding the content with the algorithm and the bit rate which has been selected, as included in claims 45, 58, and 72, retrieving a previously calculated measured rate of encoding so as to provide an interim rate of completion for a subsequent process of encoding the content with the specific encoding algorithm and the bit rate, as included in claims 50 and 63, calculating a measured rate of encoding using the selected sample and an amount of time it took to encode the selected sample so as to provide an interim rate of completion of a subsequent process of encoding the content with the algorithm and a bit rate which has been selected, as included in claims 57, 71, and 78.

4. Claims (46-49), (51-56), (59-62), (64-70), and (73-77), are allowed because they are dependent claims of the allowable independents 45, 50, 58, 63, and 72 above, in that order.

Conclusion

5. Claims 45-78 are allowable.
